

Jadiya's birth

Marta Benítez Brañas

Jadiya's birth, a tale to shäre, Amidst a city's despa)r.

Where food was scarce, destruction near,
Bombs falling, hearts filled with fear.

In those dark days, Isam dreamt bright,
A lucky star, a guiding light.
It led him, his family to flee,
From the nightmare, they must break free.

As daylight kissed the silent ground,
Isam and Baasima were bound.
Hand in hand, they stealthily fled,
With courage, hope, and dreams ahead.

Along the path, they met three beasts,
Guarding borders, night's fierce quests.

But fate smiled upon their way,
With messengers who led the day.

For coins, we'll take you to a land, A promised place, so grand and grand."

Baasima scoffed, "A promised lie!"
But still, they boarded, reaching for the sky.

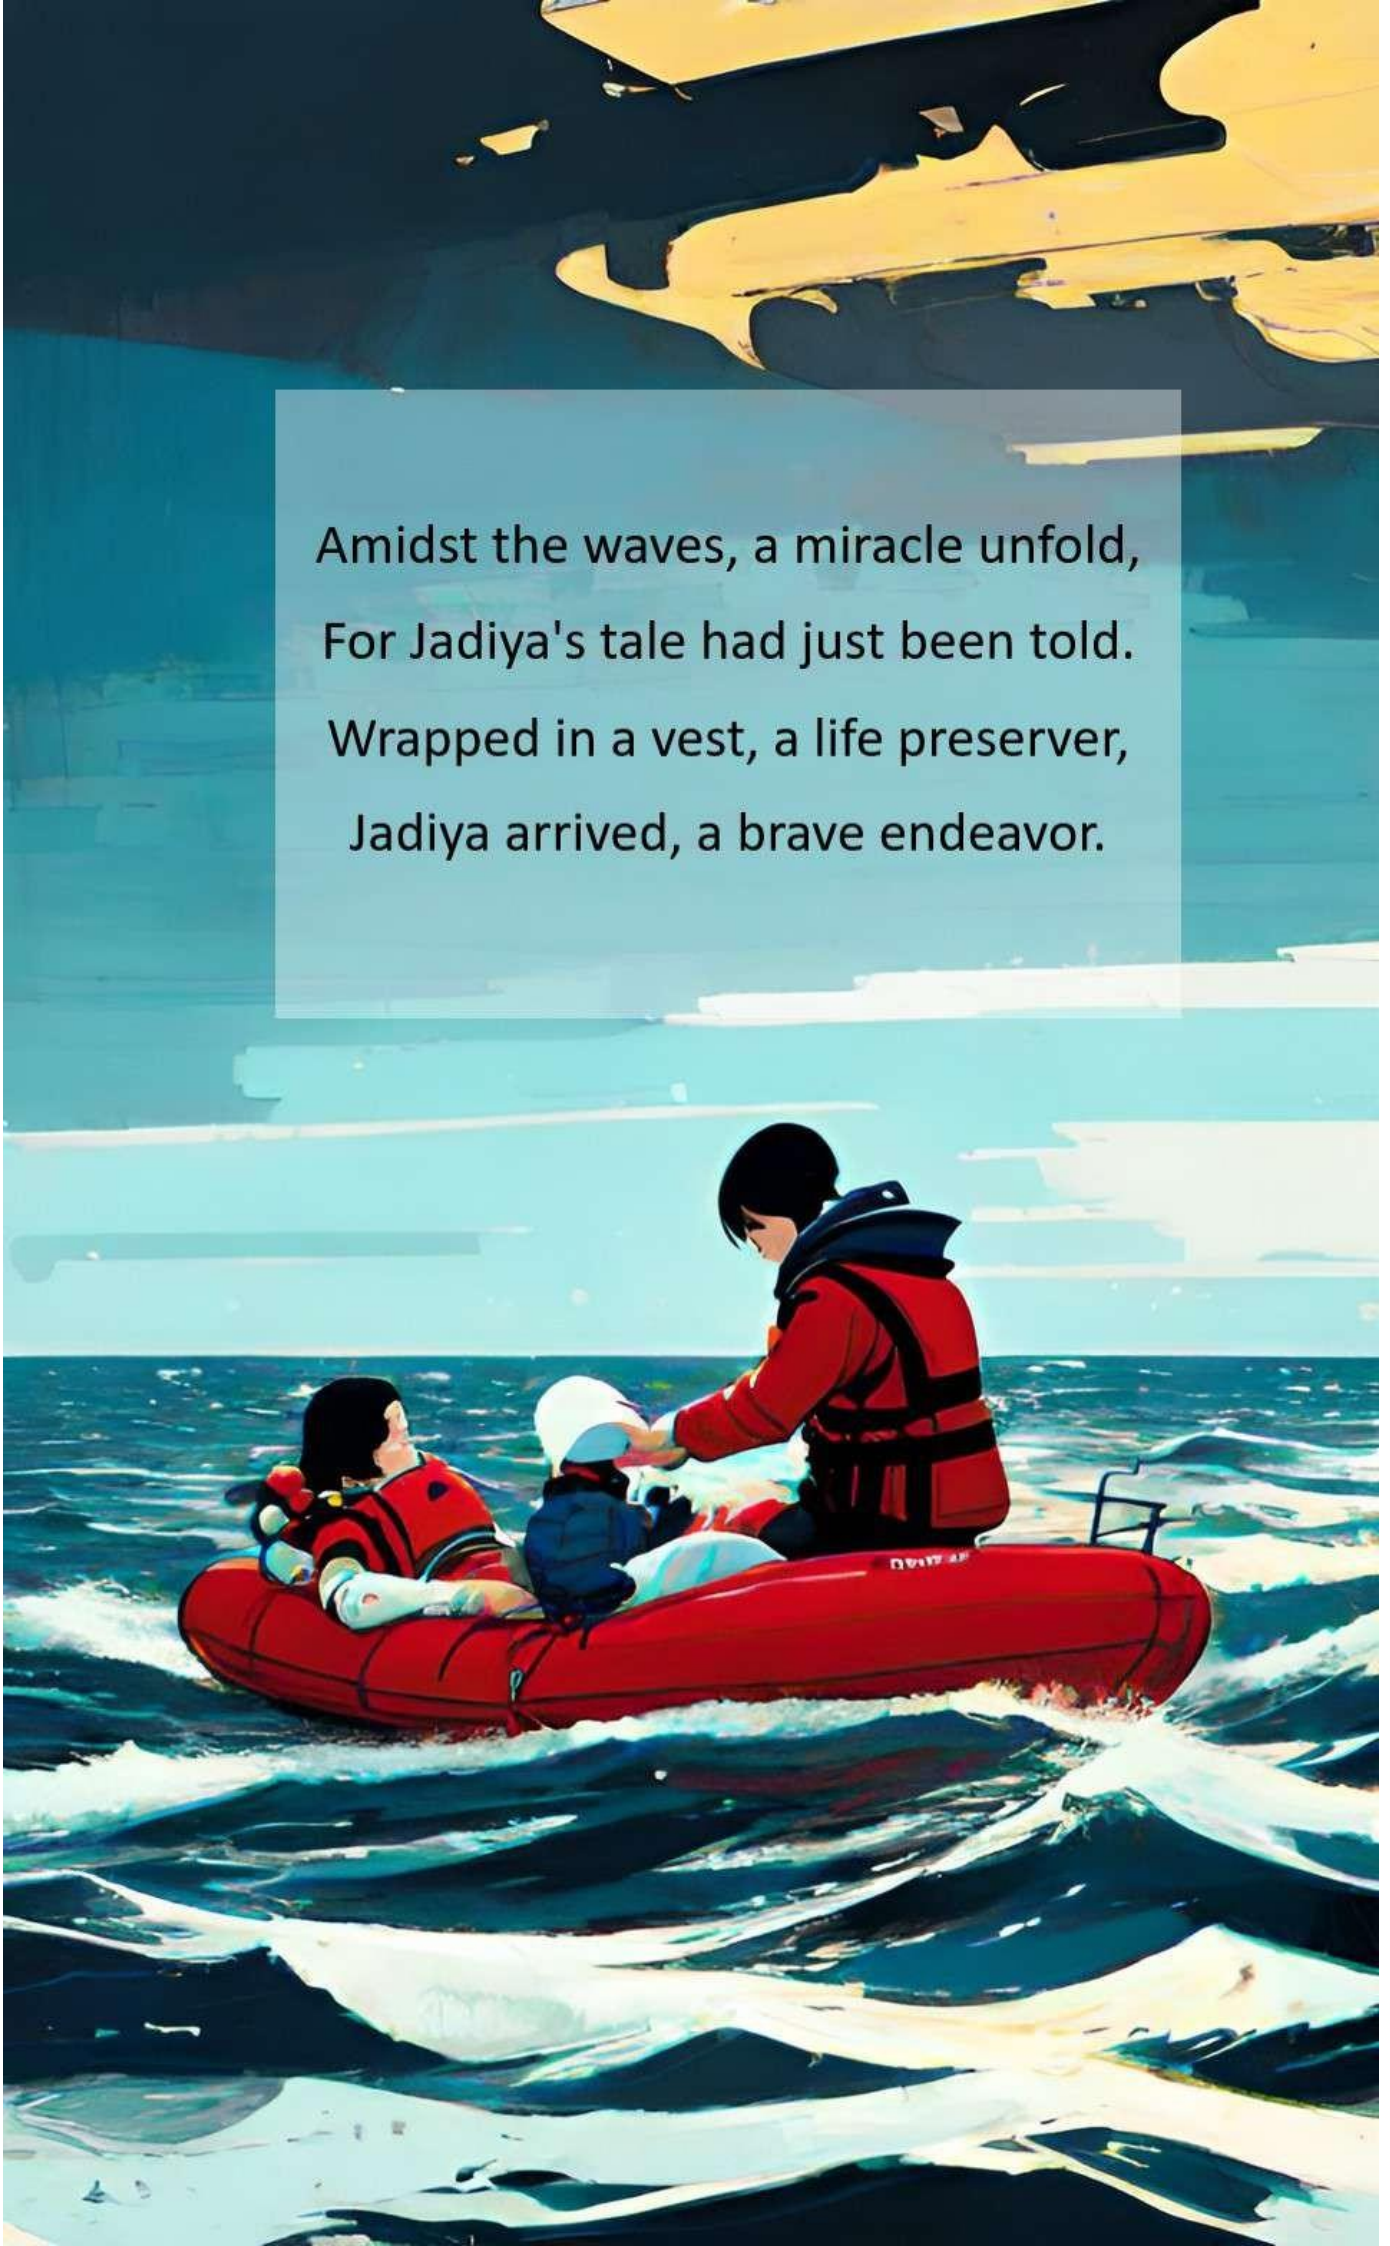

On a rickety boat, they sailed,
Midst the sea, her labor unveiled.

A painting of a woman in a white dress floating in a pool of water. The water is depicted with vibrant, swirling colors of blue, green, and yellow. In the background, a yellow umbrella is visible against a dark blue sky. The overall mood is serene and melancholic.

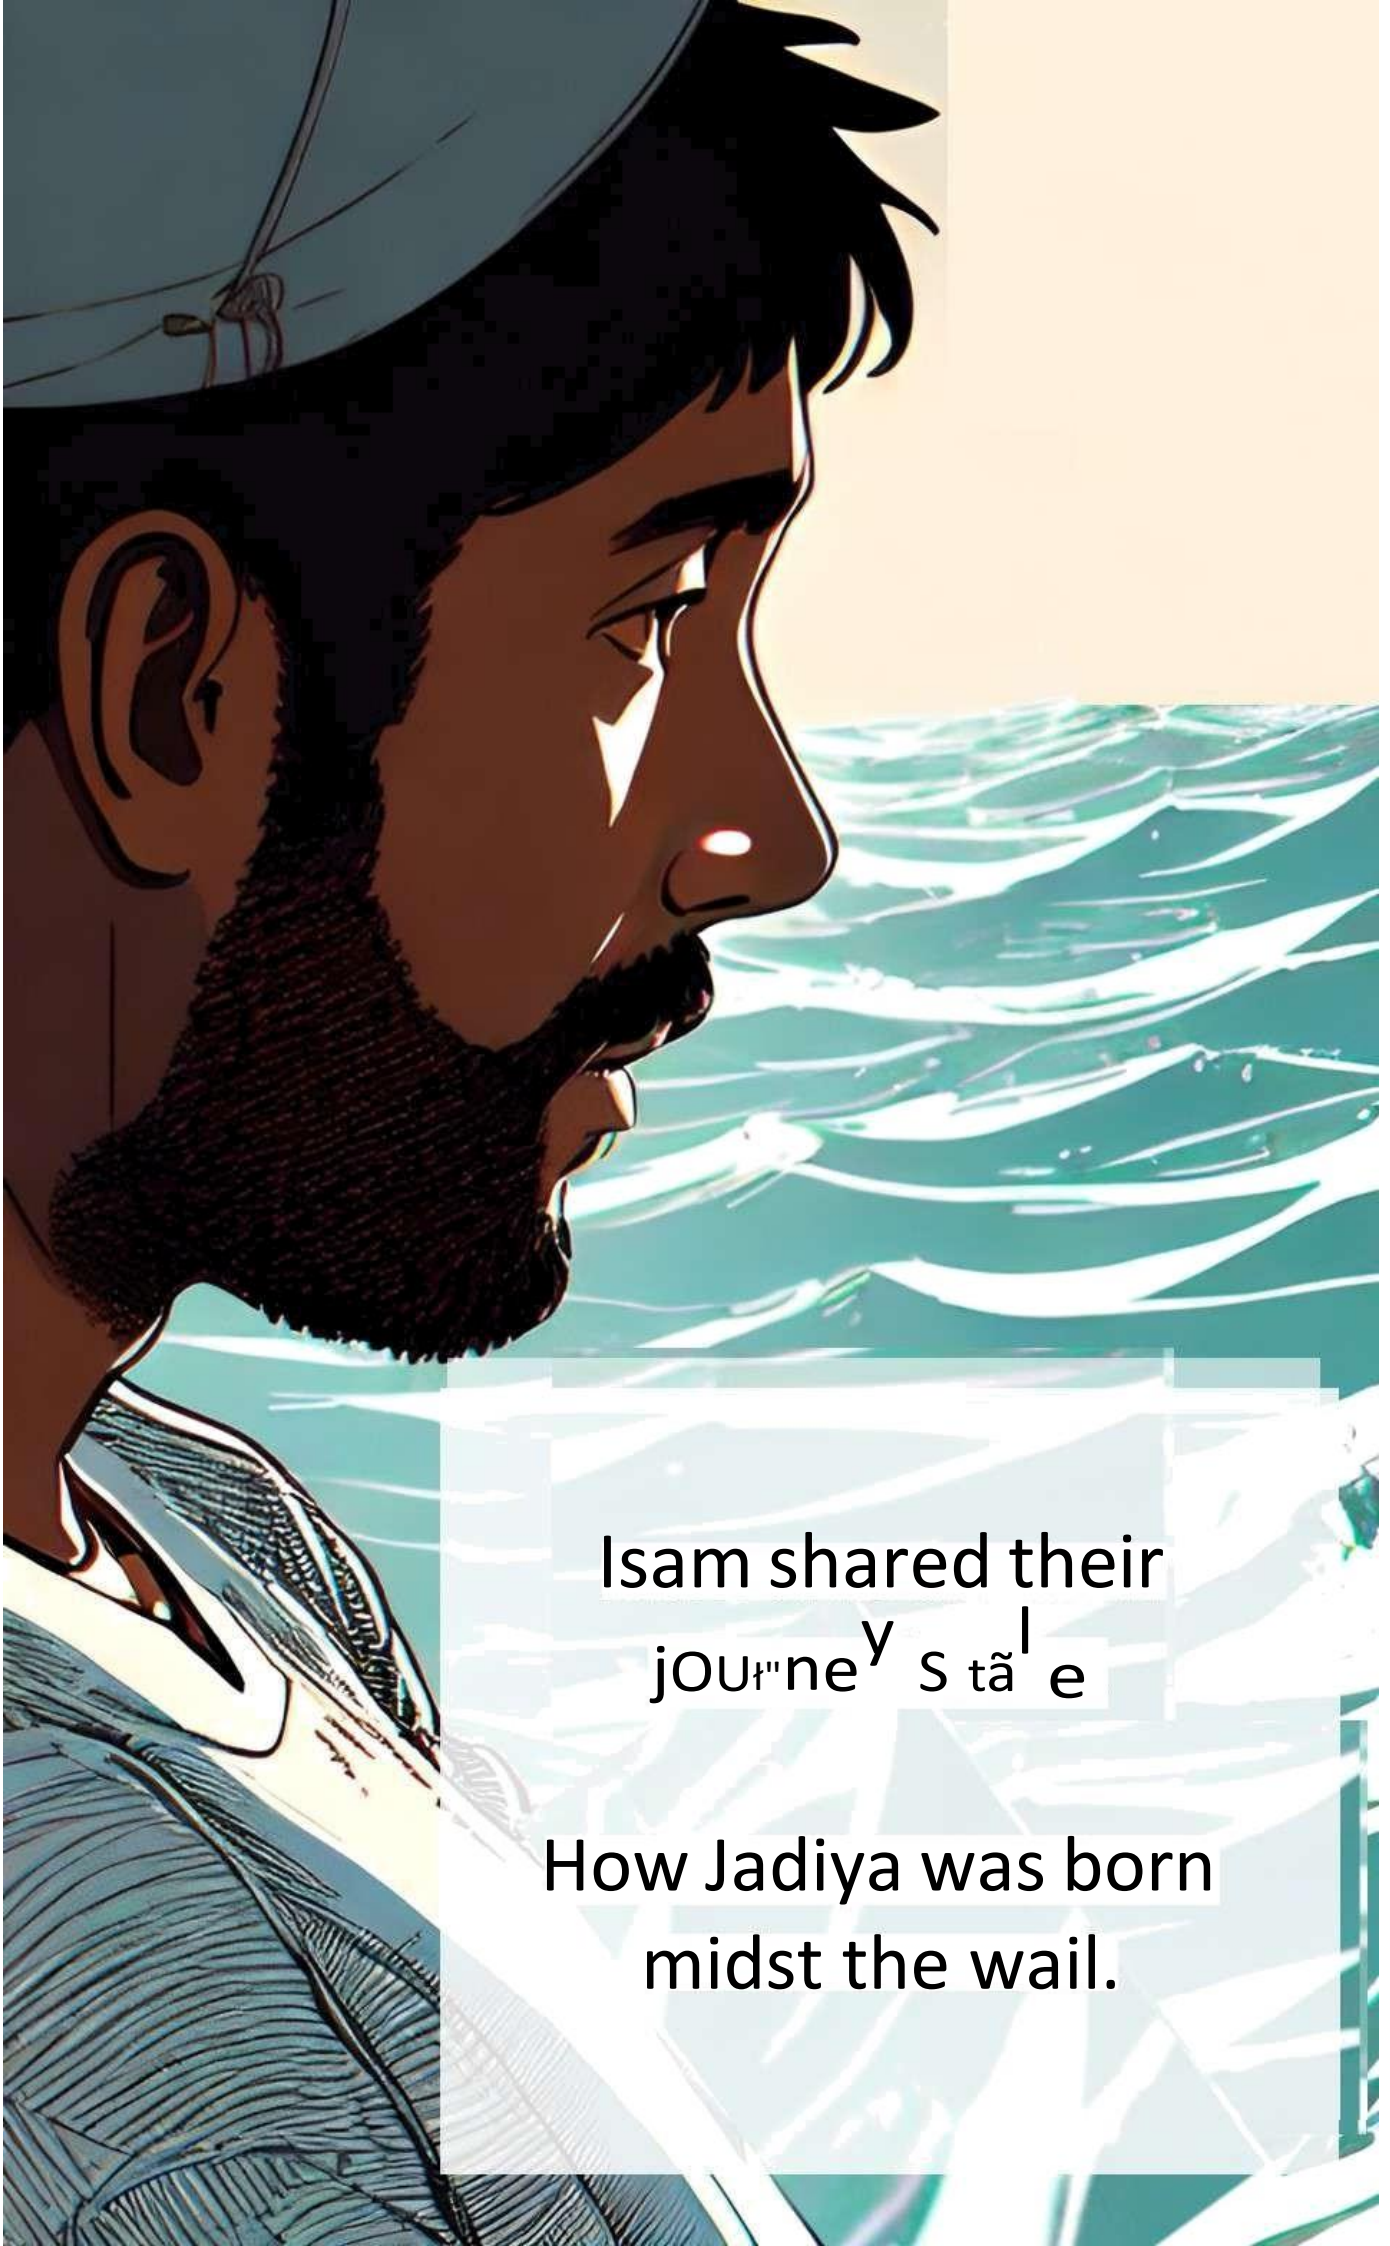

A bittersweet moment, under the sun,
With her last breath, she whispered dear,
"Take care of Jadiya, my love so clear."

Amidst the waves, a miracle unfold,
For Jadiya's tale had just been told.
Wrapped in a vest, a life preserver,
Jadiya arrived, a brave endeavor.

On solid ground, they found a friend,
An elderly soul, whose heart would mend.

Isam shared their journe^y s tā^l e

How Jadiya was born midst the wail.

In the midst of the vast sea's roar,
They offered her freedom's door.
With tears of hope, the woman heard,
A story beyond belief or word.

"Jadiya born in the midst of the sea,
A chance for freedom, for her to be."
And so, the legend of Jadiya's birth,
A symbol of hope, for all on Earth.

In times of darkness, she'll inspire,
A beacon of freedom, soaring high.
With Baasima gone, her love's embrace,
In Jadiya's heart, she'll find a place.

To carry on the dream, they share,
A legacy of love, beyond compare.

adiya's Birth: A Tale to Share” is a story dedicated to all those mothers and families who have lost their lives while trying to escape from horror.

In their memory, may this story serve as a reminder of their courage and resilience.
May it also inspire us to stand in solidarity with those who continue to endure hardship and seek refuge. Let us never forget their sacrifice and the importance of creating a world where every child can be born into a safer and more compassionate place.

Marta Benitez Brañas

